The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Once successful in securing special benefits by legislative enactments, the various minority groups which knock at the doors of the legislature almost invariably develop a desire for additional benefits.

The "acquisitive urge" is nowhere more pronounced than in the halls, corridors and committee rooms at Sacramento where representatives of organized minorities lie in wait for lawmakers who have the right to dispense special favors at public expense.

And in the legislature, it seems that a favor once granted is always construed as an invitation to return for a second helping at the next session. Special appropriations and special benefits, no matter how generous seldom ever satisfy. The favored group simply develops a bigger appetite—and having once eaten at the taxpayer's table is bound to return hungrier and more demanding than before.

This circumstance, in fact, has frequently delayed the enactment of sound humanitarian legislation and needed reforms, for the legislature has learned that each time it adopts a new group of dependents it must expect to be bombarded with demands for bigger checks at each succeeding session.

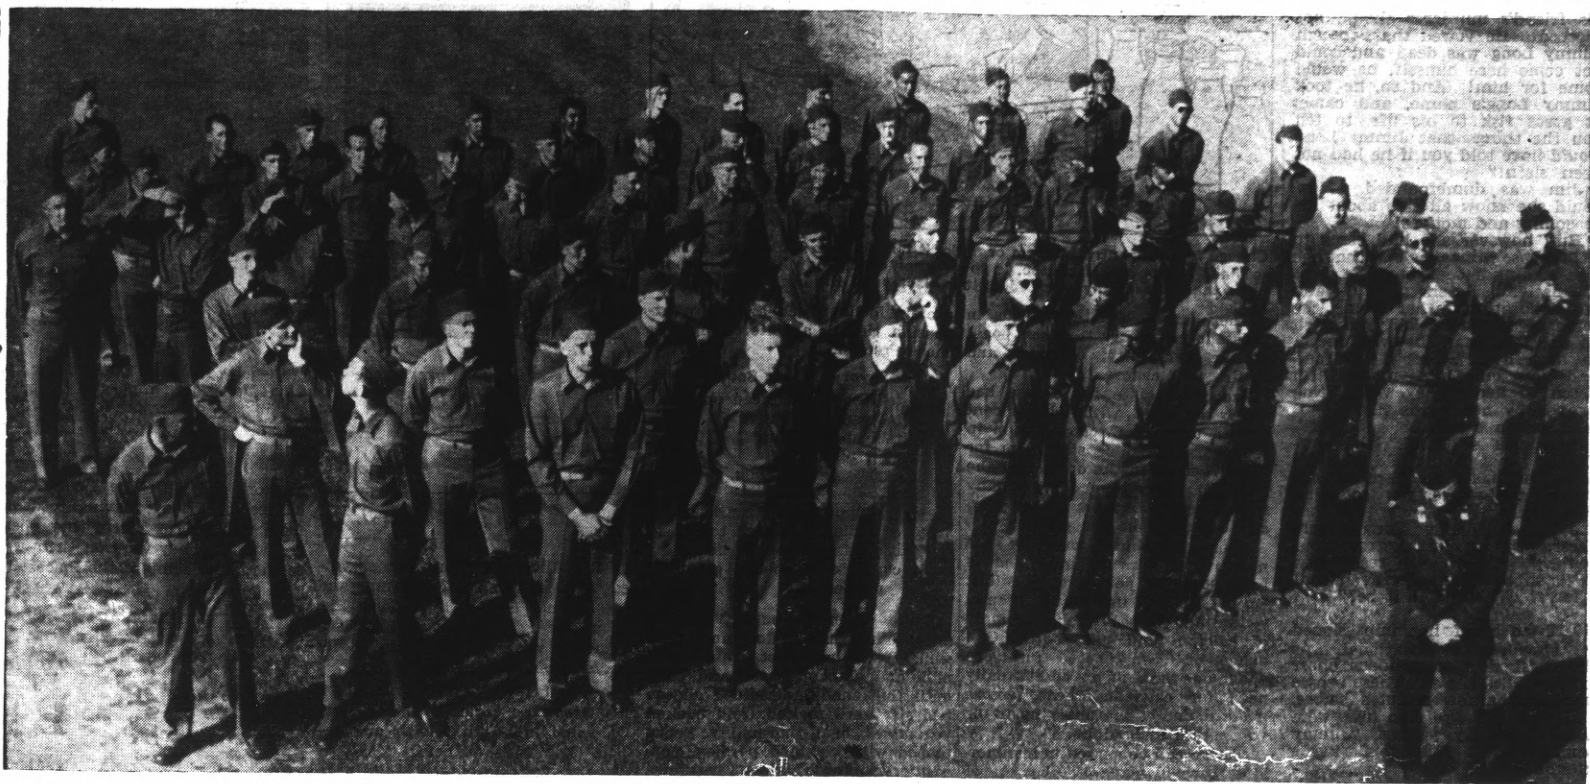

Illustrative of the problem is the flood of bills at the current session of the legislature asking sharply increased benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act. Since that act was first enacted, there has never been a legislative session when labor leaders haven't come back for a bigger and better "second helping." Step by step, the benefits paid injured workmen have been forced up, at constantly mounting cost to farmers and other employers who must foot the bill for insurance premiums, with the result that one group has been badly over-burdened and penalized to provide for another group which has found that it pays to maintain an effective body at the legislature.

Among the many bills pending at this session to boost payments under the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act, and "liberalize" its provisions, is A. B. 519, which is said to represent the program of the State Federation of Labor. This act seeks to amend numerous sections of the labor code to make an employed responsible where work is being performed by an independent contractor. It would make the employer a guarantor for the independent contractor and, in the event the latter failed to pay all the awards within 30 days after they became due, would require the employer to pay even though he had no notice of the proceedings. It also adds a new section providing that if an insurer defaults in paying an award for compensation the employer must pay. It likewise steps up the death benefits and the minimum weekly earnings, stiffens the penalties for wilful misconduct, and apparently provides for all the other extensions in benefits and costs contained in most of the "liberalizing" bills which were rejected at the 1939 session of the legislature.

Another bill, A. B. 2017, would levy a tax (amount unstated) on employers to be used in paying inspectors for the Industrial Accident Commission. Still another, A. B. 931, raises the disability payment from 65 per cent to 80 per cent of the average weekly earnings in case of temporary total disability and in case of temporary partial disability. It likewise provides that the average weekly earnings shall not be less than the actual weekly earnings at the time of the accident and that if the employee has not worked a week, the actual weekly earnings will be presumed to be 5 1/2 times his daily earnings. S. B. 1034 carries somewhat similar provisions and would also "up" disability payments from 65 per cent to 80 per cent of average weekly earnings.

A. B. 1107 adds a new section to the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act to prohibit an employer from discriminating against any person in regard to hire or tenure who has previously sustained any injury, or because such person is suffering from a physical infirmity, provided he is able to perform the duties in connection with such employment. A. B. 864 would raise the minimum average weekly earnings from $10 to $15. A. B. 1172 permits the employer to engage a consulting physician at the expense of COMPANY D, 115 ENGINEERS, CALIFORNIA NATIONAL GUARD, halted for a short rest during marching drill at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr. Memorial Park, one afternoon last week, and as the men stood "At ease" a representative of the Sierra Photo Studio snapped this picture, which shows all of the men clearly, except that the men were "At ease." To attach the right name to the right face in the picture is something we shall not attempt to do, but perhaps you can find the ones in whom you are most interested. Lieutenants Fred H. Schumacher and Jack S. Berry are missing from the picture and the company was drilling under the command of Captain Arnold Weber. Company D left for Camp San Luis Obispo and a year of field training early Monday morning.

All Stars Meet On April 7th

Delegates From County Have Outstanding Records As Rescue Club Members

The delegates from El Dorado County who will attend the annual 4-H Club all star conference at the University at Berkeley on April 7, 8, 9, and 10, are outstanding members of the Rescue 4-H Club, which has the oldest active membership among 4-H Clubs in the county.

The two were named as delegates to the conference by the county 4-H Club Council.

Miss Elaine Muir, who is the girl delegate, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Muir, nineteen years of age and a student at the Sacramento Junior College. She was in 4-H Club work three years in South Dakota prior to coming to this county in 1937 and this year is her eighth year in club work. Every year since becoming a member of the Rescue Club she has had a clothing project, and the past three years she has also had a poultry project, reporting a net profit for the three years in this work.

A former secretary of her club, she is a member of the club orchestra and also a member of the club's vocal trio and has done her part in committee work.

John C. Wunschel, the boy delegate, is a son of Louis Wunschel, sixteen years old and in his fifth year of 4-H Club work. "J. C.", as many know him, is a pupil at the county high school and his debut in club work found him in a poultry project. This he abandoned after the first year to undertake an Angora goat project and at the last "Census" the flock numbered thirteen. Vice-president of the club last year, John has been active in committee work for the club and is outstanding in his attendance at club meetings.

Daughter Of Pioneer Here For Visit

Miss Etta Elizabeth King, daughter of George Washington King, a pioneer of 1853, who kept store in Placerville and later ranched at Missouri Flat, where Miss Etta was born, is a visitor this week from San Francisco.

Miss King's father passed away in 1872. She reports that she recalls hearing that during the family's residence in Placerville they lived on Bedford Avenue, next to the residence of Senator Fraser.

Miss King is stopping at the Santa Rita hotel and is interested in looking up some of the history of the family in this community and at El Dorado, where her father was well and favorably known.

SABOTAGE IN WRECK SEEN

Railroad Men Believe Russian Group May Have Been Saboteur Targets

PITTSBURGH, AP — The Manhattan Limited which passed the spot near Baden, Pa. just before another Pennsylvania Railroad train, which was wrecked by saboteurs, carried a group of Russian "Diplomats or engineers." It was testified today at an ICC hearing.

The witness was W. M. Scheiber, conductor on the Manhattan Limited, which passed the scene of the wreck 18 minutes before the Buckeye Limited, which left the rails and plunged into the Ohio River last Sunday night, killing five and injuring more than 100.

Railroad men have expressed belief that the Manhattan Limited was the real target of saboteurs.

Scheiber said that in two of three special sleeping cars attached to the 13-car train were 44 passengers he had understood "were Russian diplomats or engineers."

The conductor told the interstate commerce commission examiners that the third special sleeping car carried "20 boys in khaki uniform." R. A. Bradshaw, a brakeman on the Manhattan Limited said he understood the soldiers in the third sleeping car were aviators.

Both the railroad men said they noticed nothing unusual as their train passed over the tracks at the spot where the wreck occurred.

Scheiber said the Manhattan Limited might have been traveling about 60 miles an hour at that point.

Italian Ships Sunk

LONDON, (UP)—The admiralty reported today that British submarines have sunk four and probably five Italian ships in the Mediterranean including two transports believed to be heavily loaded with troops.

By UNITED PRESS

The German air force brought the blitzkrieg back to London today with one of the fiercest attacks of the war, lashing the metropolis with a rain of bombs for many hours during the night.

The attack caused substantial casualties and set fires so large that at one time they illuminated an area of 30 to 40 square miles.

Berlin said that the attack put those upon Coventry and Hull "into the shade" but there was no indication in either the British or the German accounts that the raid was any more powerful than the huge night attacks of last fall.

There was virtually no air activity in other parts of Britain.

While the Germans pounded at London, the Royal Air Force attacked the Ruhr country, centering on

PASSPORT TO PERIL

by DAVIS DRESSER

Copyright 1938 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

In Miami, Jim Talbot, adventurer, meets James Long, his exact double. Long is about to sail for Costanagua, Central American republic, in response to a mysterious appeal from Zachary Webb, veteran soldier of fortune. When unknown plotters slay Long, Jim assumes his identity and sails in his place. In Costanagua, he presents himself to Zach Webb as "Long," and learns that a man named Strade is fomenting a revolution. Long's dead father is a national hero, and Zach believes that his son—supposedly Jim—can turn the natives against Strade. Meanwhile, Jim has fallen in love with Strade's beautiful secretary, Vara. He and Zach and Don Jose Alvarado de Montez go through the country to rally the natives to their side, but Strade denounces Jim as an impostor. Jim tells Zach and Don Jose the truth, and accuses Strade of Long's murder. But when they tell the natives he is not Long, and try to convince them that Strade murdered Long, the natives hear only that they have been deceived, and try to mob Jim.

CHAPTER XXX

JIM was about to draw his gun when, suddenly, in the midst of the swelling uproar, he was startled to hear a feminine voice calling his name.

He jerked his head about and stared incredulously as he saw Vara at the side of the platform, struggling to climb up.

"Good lord!" exclaimed Zach. "What's she doing here?"

One of the chiefs had reached down and aided her up. "Vara!" gasped Jim. "What...?"

"Hush!" she cut him off. "I want make them listen!"

She stepped quickly to the front of the platform and held up her hand. As she did so, the yells of the mob miraculously subsided.

The swarm of natives, gaping up at her, were obviously astonished and bewildered by the unexpected appearance, at Jim's side, of this beautiful girl whom they all knew to be a member of Strade's party.

As comparative silence fell over the puzzled horde, she raised her voice and began speaking to them in their native tongue.

"Do you know who I am?" she called out.

"Si! Si!" yelled from a hundred throats.

"You know that I am Senor Strade's secretary, do you not?"

"You know that I have been traveling through the country in his party! I have worked for him for a long time, and I know much about him—and what he has done!"

"But no more will I work for him!" she cried out passionately.

"Why do I say this? Because what Senor Webb has told you is true! Because Senor Strade has killed a man—he has killed Jimmy Long in America—and I will not work for a murderer! You are fools not to listen to Senor Webb for he speaks the truth, and I know it is the truth, and I tell you so! I, Senor Strade's secretary!"

A murmur ran through the crowd—not a hostile murmur but one that indicated they were impressed by what she said.

JIM's heartbeat had quickened. So the sight of the mob menacing his life had been too much for her! To save him, she had decided to desert Strade, after all—and tell what she knew!

She was continuing. She confirmed Zach's statement that Strade had slain Long to keep him from coming here and thwarting Strade's revolutionary plans. Then, with increasing fervor, she switched to the subject of Jim.

"You are fools, too," she said fiercely, "not to listen to what Senor Webb was about to tell you about this man who came here in Jimmy Long's stead. He was a friend of Jimmy Long! And when his friend was killed, he vowed to avenge his death! He vowed that his friend's murderer should not succeed! He vowed that, though Jimmy Long was dead and could not come here himself, he would come for him! And so, he took Jimmy Long's name, and came, at great risk to his life, to tell you the things that Jimmy Long would have told you if he had not been slain!"

Jim was dumbfounded. How could she know all this about his reasoning and motives!

But, however she had come to know these things, he saw that she was making a deep impression on the natives. As she went on and on, elaborating on her theme, the force of her personality, as well as the fact that she was known to have been Strade's aide and had now quit him, made them listen to her. They were being swayed by her words like blades of grass in a wind.

"Are you so blind," she concluded, "that you would kill this man who has come here to save Costanagua! Are you so blind that you will continue to follow the lead of Jimmy Long's murderer, who would destroy your country! Or are you ready now to listen to Jimmy Long's friend! Choose! Which shall it be?"

THE effect of her impassioned speech was sensational. As she finished, a tremendous cheer for Jim filled the air. These people, who, only a few minutes before, had been about to mob him, were now frantically yelling, "Jimmy Long's friend! Jimmy Long's friend!"

Jim had seized Vara's hands. "Vara! You've saved my life! You're marvelous—magnificent!"

Then, Zach and Don Jose were pressing about her, wringing her hand, thanking her fervently.

The crowd was loudly demanding a speech from Jim, raising a terrific roar.

Zach shouted to Jim, "They're as eager now to mob you out of friendship as they were before out of enmity! You'd better say a few words to them—and then take Vara and get back to the headman's house. Don Jose and I will hold them here a while longer and talk to them, to clinch things. Then we will join you."

Jim made a brief, halting speech, explaining that he was unfamiliar with their language but promising to have more to say later.

Then, he and Vara left Zach and Don Jose to handle the crowd and climbing down off the platform, started back toward the headman's house. A pathway through the throng was opened for them, and their progress was like a triumphal march. Cheers rang in their ears, and natives reached out to seize their hands.

FINALLY, they reached the fringe of the crowd, and started down the comparatively deserted street.

Suddenly, Vara halted and clutched Jim's arm.

"Jim!" she whispered. "Those two men! Look!"

Jim saw two men just darting out of sight.

"What about them?" he asked.

"They are Strade's men!" Vara told him. "One of them is the man I told you about who was in camp today when you came. He must have seen me go with you—must have told Mr. Strade! He and the other have followed me here!"

"Well, what harm can they do?" said Jim. "They can only go back to Strade and tell him that he's licked—that the natives have turned against him."

"But I am the one who turned them against him!" Vara pointed out. "What will he do when he hears that I have done that—that I have accused him of murder!"

"You're safe here with Don Jose and Zach and me," Jim told her. "You have no intention, I hope, of going back to his camp?"

"No—of course not!" she replied, her voice trembling. "But I am afraid..."

Cheese An Ideal Food Of Many Uses

Cheese is a concentrated form of milk; it takes about five quarts of milk to make one pound of cheese. In the kitchen cheese can be used in more ways than almost any other food. It is also one of the best protein foods.

There are few, if any, foods in constant use today that can boast of the versatility, economy and tastiness of cheese.

America's taste for cheese has vastly increased, with a 36 per cent rise in total U. S. consumption in ten years. There is still room for improvement, in the opinion of the National Dairy Council, as many foreign nations have a higher average consumption per person.

Cheese combines most of the nutritive factors in milk and is from 90 to 99 per cent digestible. Cheese is an important vitamin source and valuable for its supply of calcium and phosphorus. One ounce of hard cheese furnishes about one-third of an adult's daily need for calcium. These factors make it one of the finest foods for youngsters and adults.

Cheese can be served in innumerable ways in place of other staple protein foods which are more expensive. Here is an interesting new cheese recipe:

Savory Cheese Soup

- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4½ tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cups chicken stock, or bouillon
- ½ lb. sharp American cheese
- ½ cup minced cooked carrot
- ½ cup minced cooked celery
- ½ cup minced cooked green pepper

Saute onion in butter, do not allow to brown. Add flour and blend well. Place over hot water, add milk and chicken stock and cook until thickened. Add diced cheese and stir until melted. Add cooked vegetables, heat thoroughly. Serve topped with chopped parsley, popcorn or croutons. Makes 6 servings.

WELCOMING THE "FORTY NINERS," the new electrical installation at the Sacramento Street headquarters of the County Historical Society and the Chamber of Commerce, was this group of El Dorado County business and civic leaders who gathered at the building last Friday afternoon as the new installation was formally dedicated by officials of the General Electric Company. Perhaps you can get a glimpse of one of the several fixtures behind Mr. Berry's head. In the picture, left to right, are L. A. Raffetto, Mayor Charles Molinari, Swift Berry, Chamber of Commerce President Roy G. Strum; District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, E. Ogden Hook, Clarence Chalders, who had charge of the installation for The Sportsman's Shop, G. E. Loomis, and Chamber of Commerce Secretary Wallace M. Ripley. An open house for public inspection of the new lighting and of the pioneer museum, will be held Friday night of this week.—Democrat photo.

EL DORADO NEWS NOTES

El Dorado Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star held their meeting on Friday evening, March 14, the Deputy Grand Matron Miss Inez Veerkamp, making her official visit. A lovely meeting was held and the officers all did their work well. A delicious pot luck supper was served after the meeting with Mrs. A. Strickland as chairman. The color scheme for the banquet hall was in St. Patrick's colors and the green with the white backgrounds made a pretty setting. Mrs. Irene Scheiber was chairman. Several interesting talks were given and the guests were the worthy matrons and patrons from Fallen Leaf chapter, Placerville, and Mountain Fern Chapter, Georgetown, as well as visitors from both chapters.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Martha Forni of El Dorado was very ill with the flu and hope she will soon be well and about again.

Mrs. Lola Wells of Grass Valley was confined to her home with the mumps.

V. W. (Mick) Strickland is on the road to recovery and will be able to leave the hospital this week.

Mrs. Florence Bryan had the misfortune to fall and break her arm Sunday.

Mrs. Evelyn Hosking, whom we all loved and will miss so much, was laid to rest in El Dorado Monday. The community of El Dorado extends heartfelt sympathy to Dr. R. Rosking and other relatives.

Mrs. J. M. Strickland attended a party at Escalon by the American Legion and Auxiliaries of Escalon and Stockton in honor of her mother's and father's golden wedding anniversary. They are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Harder, of Escalon. They will hold open house on Sunday to celebrate the occasion and we congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Harder and hope they have many more happy years together.

Roy Sullivan was taken to the Stanford Lane Hospital for observation, having been ill for the past two months. No report as to his condition has been received to date.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Winkelman, of Fruit Ridge, was home from an extended vacation trip through Dixie, and home across the deep south, after taking delivery of a new Studebaker sedan, purchased through the C. S. Collins dealership, at the South Bend, Ind., factory. The two spent a short while at Joliet, Ill., with Captain and Mrs. Don M. Hoffman, who sent greetings to their many El Dorado County friends.

MARION ENZLER WILL WED ROGER M. REEVE ON APRIL 10

On Saturday last, Miss Madeline Esper and Mrs. Morley Kerfoot complimented Miss Marion Enzler, of Cool and Berkeley, at a surprise luncheon at the home of Mrs. Kerfoot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Lehman, of Cool.

A filet lace cloth was used on the buffet table, which was arranged with a large copper bowl of mixed Spring blossoms as a centerpiece. The small tables were centered with carnations.

When the guests broke open hot rolls, they found tiny paper scrolls announcing the betrothal of the honored guest and Roger M. Reeve, with the date of the marriage, which has been set for April 10.

Miss Enzler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Enzler, of Cool, and the grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Miller, of Placerville. She was graduated at the University of California at the mid-year and is doing graduate work there.

Dr. Reeve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle H. Reeve, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and is an assistant in the botany department at the University, where the young people plan to make their home for the present.

Among those who were present at the luncheon to greet the honored guest were Mesdames Via Copen, Stanley Lovejoy, Delbert Niel, Raymond Niel, Burton Threlkel, Will Lehman and Louis Enzler; the Misses Louise Eberhard, Betty Couder, Bernice Niel and Ruby Steever, of Cool, and Jane Graham, of Auburn, and the hostesses.

COUNTY COUPLE WED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Lawyer Celebrate Anniversary On Sunday At Colfax

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Lawyer, both of whom are natives of El Dorado County, was observed on Sunday at a family gathering at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hoffman, at Colfax.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawyer reside at Nevada City.

The family enjoyed a dinner at Sleepy Hollow, near Colfax, around a table decorated in gold on which a large cake decorated with the date of their marriage and roses, in gold, formed the centerpiece.

Mr. Lawyer was born at American Flat, this county, in 1869. His father kept a store there in the early days. Mr. Lawyer knew James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold at Coloma, and recalls the interest with which he, as a child, listened to Marshall's stories of life in El Dorado County in the days of '48 and '49.

Mrs. Lawyer was born at old Louisville, near Kelsey, in 1874. She is the former Catherine Thompson.

Four children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawyer. They are, Archie Lawyer, of Lotus; P. J. Lawyer, of Sacramento; Mrs. W. U. Mayhew, of Klamath Falls, and Mrs. Phil Hoffman, of Colfax.

There are seven grandchildren: Raymond Lawyer, Mrs. Ethel Tidd, Jay, Bill and Catherine Mayhew and Don and Bob Gilkey.

Gary Jay Mayhew, of Klamath Falls, is a great grandson.

Guests and relatives who shared the day with the honored pair included Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lawyer, of Lotus; Mrs. Clarence Tidd, of Camino; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Lawyer, Miss Lily Vismann, and Richard Thompson, all of Sacramento; Raymond Lawyer, of Corvallis, Oregon; Bob Gilkey, of Yuba City; Charles Thompson and Miss Betty Roberts, of Marysville; H. H. Thompson, of San Francisco; Miss Betty Davis, of Roseville, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hoffman, of Colfax.

Catherine Mendonca has brought suit for divorce from Charles W. Mendonca, charging cruelty. The complaint states the pair wed in Placerville Feb. 16, 1929, separated Jan. 15, 1941, have no children and have community property including household furnishings and an equity in a car.

the employer. And A. B. 601 places the burden of proof upon the employer to establish that any disability has terminated.

There are dozens of other bills, some, sound, perhaps; others are wholly unjustified. But the basic problem with regard to these bills, which would cost farmers many thousands of dollars at a time when most farmers simply can't afford increased costs, is that demands, for the most part, are not made on the principles of reason or justice, but are predicated on what the lobbyists believe they can get.

Thus far, there is no evidence of a ceiling on the demands of special interests or special groups at Sacramento. The groups which lack adequate representation—and often that group is the public at large—simply pays tribute, in constantly increasing amounts, to the groups which want a "second helping" and come prepared to get it.

DOOMED CARAVAN' FILLED WITH ACTION FOR FILM FANS

Action as "Hopalong" Cassidy can deliver it and Harry Sherman produce it is provided in good measure in the latest in the series of outdoor action romances inspired by characters created by Clarence E. Mulford, "Doomed Caravan," which opened at the Empire Theatre last night. The picture will be shown again tonight along with "Honey-moon for Three."

William Boyd, again cast as Cassidy in the thrilling story of the old wagon freighting days, is at his best.

Riding at "Hoppy's" side, as in the previous Cassidy thrillers, is Lucky Jenkins, played by Russell Hayden, and "California," portrayed by the veteran screen comic, Andy Clyde. Others in the cast are Gloria Hawkins, Morris Ankrum, and over 30 seasoned riders.

F. hall is being divided and that one side of the two rooms thus created will be occupied by the Sierra Photo Studio. At the time he talked with him, he said that a tenant was negotiating for the other store room but that no conclusive arrangement had been agreed upon.
